Book Reviews

British Columbia. Report on Oriental Activities Within the Province. (Victoria: The Legislative Assembly, 1927. Pp. 24.)

Statistical information is here assembled by different agencies of government. The most significant paragraph among the conclusions is the following:

"The fact is pointed out, particularly in Vancouver and Victoria, that whereas until recent years Chinese stores were only to be found in those quarters of the two cities which have for many years been occupied by people of this race, stores and laundries conducted by Chinese are now to be found spread over all parts of the cities, in addition to the still existing Chinese quarters. Municipal officials state that in numerous instances these stores, selling confectionery, soft drinks, fruits, cigarettes, vegetables, canned goods, or small groceries, have replaced or driven out white storekeepers who formerly made a livelihood, or supplemented the earnings of other members of the family, in this manner. Chinese residence in other quarters than their own has followed this business penetration."

- Archeological Observations North of the Rio Colorado. By NEIL M. JUDD. (Washington: Bureau of American Ethnology, 1926. Pp. 171.)
- Burials of the Algonquian, Siouan and Caddoan Tribes West of the Mississippi. By DAVID I. BUSHNELL, JR. (Washington: Bureau of American Ethnology, 1927. Pp. 103.)

These two books comprise Bulletins 82 and 83 of the Bureau of American Ethnology. They are of the same type of excellence as to paper, binding and illustrations as are the other works issued under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution. The titles give a sufficient index of the contents.

British Columbia. Report of the Provincial Museum of Natural History for the year 1926. (Victoria: Legislative Assembly, 1927. Pp. 41.)

The year's success in activities and collections are set forth with the usual excellence of type and illustrations. The printing is credited to "Charles F. Banfield, Printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty."

The Sanctity of Law. Wherein Does it Consist. By JOHN W. BURGESS. (Boston: Ginn and Company, 1927. Pp. 335. $3.00.) Hosts will hope that The Sanctity of Law is not the farewell volume from Professor Burgess; but if it should prove to be so it will be accepted as a crowning sheaf in the intellectual harvest of a remarkable man.

308

John William Burgess was born in Tennessee on August 26, 1844. For more than fifty years he has been one of the most resourceful and successful scholars associated in the Faculty of Columbia University. His works in the field of political science and history are known and used throughout the world. Those who have had the opportunity of reading the tribute-biography of him by Professor Shepherd, also of Columbia University, in the volume entitled American Masters of Social Science, will appreciate the effect of the man's work in the development of American scholarship.

The Sanctity of Law is like a great apex of that work. The subject is, of course, basic in the progress of human civilization through government. He begins with the Roman Empire and ends with the Treaty of Versailles of 1919. It is fortunate that we have such a sweep from such a mind when the world is struggling with problems never so great and never so perplexing.

China. The Collection and Disposal of the Maritime and Native Customs Revenue Since the Revolution of 1911. By STANLEY F. WRIGHT. (Shanghai: Statistical Department of the Inspectorate General of Customs, 1927. Pp. 276. $5.00.)

The author is Commissioner of Customs and Personal Secretary to the Inspector General. The nature of the book is well expressed in its title, but it may be further explained by the headings of the six chapters as follows: "Collecting, Banking, Remitting, and Distributing the Revenue," "First Charges on the Revenue," "Foreign Loans Secured on the Revenue," "The Boxer Indemnity," "National Loans Secured on Cancelled Indemnities," "Disposal of the Customs Surplus." Out of the maze of statistics emerges an optimistic note for the welfare and advancement of the Chinese people.

Other Books Received

CLEVEN, N. A. N. Readings in Hispanic American History. (Boston: Ginn, 1927. Pp. 791. $3.60.)

CONNECTICUT HISTORICAL SOCIETY. Annual Report, May, 1927. (Hartford: The Society, 1927. Pp. 80.)

DIETZ, FREDERICK C. A Political and Social History of England. (New York: Macmillan, 1927. Pp. 772.)