Campus Memories. By FRANK McCAFFREY. (Seattle: The Dogwood Press, 1933. Pp. 97. $2.00.)

Frank McCaffrey, through his Acme Press, has long since earned the reputation of being one of the outstanding master printers of the Pacific Coast. In recent years he has added The Dogwood Press from which he has issued a number of meritorious books in especially attractive form.

In this last case, Campus Memories, he is not only the printer but also the author and illustrator. With his camera he secured the twenty-nine illustrations and with his pen he produced the delicate ornaments of the initial pages. His daughter, to whom the book is dedicated, entered the University of Washington as a freshman in 1933 and the printer-father prepared this book to call attention to many of the historic objects on the campus for the benefit of the daughter and her classmates. The type, stock and binding combine to make the book unusually attractive.

Allen R. Benham, Professor of English, in a review for the University of Washington Daily, says: "I should think that this is just the kind of picture which the growing army of Washington graduates would like, to keep them in remembrance of their stay at Washington."

This new edition of the well known classic by the late General Hiram M. Chittenden has been revised and brought down to date by Eleanor Chittenden Cress, daughter of the author, and Isabelle F. Story, editor in the National Park Service. In their preface they say: "Obviously many changes have occurred in the park, in administrative and other matters, since the issuance of the last edition, and bringing the book up to date has involved extensive revision. Wherever possible in this edition, however, the changes are recorded in the form of footnotes, thus preserving the original text."

Friends of General Chittenden are delighted that his fine book
