Announcements

☛ As promised in the last issue, the leading article is by Professor C. S. Kingston, of the State Normal School, Cheney, Washington, on "The Introduction of Cattle into the Pacific Northwest."

☛ Professor Samuel Flagg Bemis, of Whitman College, and Mr. T. C. Elliott, of Walla Walla, well known to the readers of this Quarterly, contribute a pair of articles on the Mullan Road and its builder.

☛ The series of articles on the "Origin of Washington Geographic Names," begun in Volume VIII., Number 4, (October, 1917,) is brought to a conclusion in this issue. Two hundred and fifty copies of the completed volume, to comprise about four hundred pages, are now being printed and bound. They will be for sale by the University of Washington Press, Seattle.

☛ The department "Pacific Northwest Americana," omitted temporarily from this issue, will be resumed when Mr. Charles W. Smith, Assistant Librarian of the University of Washington, returns from Europe.
