

New Worker in the Field.

William A. Morris is an Oregonian who was educated at Stanford University and then took graduate work at Harvard for his Doctor of Philosophy degree. After that he made a trip for study in England and in September reported at the University of Washington for work as an assistant professor. He is a specialist in mediaeval history, but has great love for the history of the Pacific Northwest. For this reason the Quarterly will be sure to have some of his talent at its disposal.

A Correction.

In the July Quarterly was published an article on Jesse Applegate. The material as it came into the editor's hands was in the form of a clipping from a local McMinnville (Oregon) paper. There was not time for the proof to be submitted to the author, and so Professor Joseph Schafer asks that the following be published:

Three Recent Addresses.

Honorable John P. Hartman has rendered a good service to readers and students of the Northwest by causing to be published his address at the ground-breaking ceremonies of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition and also his address delivered in Spokane in January, 1907. These two addresses contain a large quantity of information pertaining to this region, which was compiled with evident care as well as much labor. The third address was also one of the exposition numbers. It was by
