The Chronicles of America. Edited by ALLEN JOHNSON. (New Haven: Yale University Press, 1921.)

This series of fifty volumes has become popular through the fascinating narratives of the dramatic episodes and through the beauty of the books themselves. They are divided into eight topical groups as follows: "I. The Morning of America," "II. The Winning of Independence," "III. The Vision of the West," "IV. The Storm of Secession," "V. The Intellectual Life," "VI. The Epic of Commerce and Industry," "VII. The Era of World Power," "VIII. Our Neighbors."

The reason for mentioning the series at this time is the fact that the Yale University Press has issued a less expensive edition strictly for the use of schools and libraries. These new volumes do not contain the sumptuous illustrations of the original edition, but they seem to be printed from the same type, they are well bound, carry essential maps and each one has a beautiful frontispiece printed in colors.

This Quarterly has received the following numbers of the new edition: Adventures of Oregon, by Constance Lindsay Skinner; The Forty-Niners, by Stewart Edward White; The Passing of the Frontier, by Emerson Hough; The Railroad Builders, by John Moody; The Agrarian Crusade, by Solon J. Buck; The Path of Empire, by Carl Russell Fish.

The Canadian Historical Review. Edited by W. S. WALLACE. (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, December, 1921.)

The article most closely related to the Pacific Northwest is "The Gold Colony of British Columbia" by Walter N. Sage, a member of the history staff in the University of British Columbia. Judge F. W. Howay, of New Westminster, has articles in the Reviews of Books department, where he examines in his scholarly way four recent discussions of the origin of the name Oregon,
