

of the Royal Society of Canada. Students will be glad to learn that the paper has already been preprinted by the Society in a pamphlet of thirty-one pages.

Judge Howay has given separate treatment to the Spanish, French, American and English voyages. Into a narrative of the various expeditions skilfully combining stories of national ambition and personal venture, the author has liberally sprinkled notes on the chief printed and available manuscript records.

At the Conference of the Pacific Northwest Library Association in Victoria, B.C. on August 27, Judge Howay gave an address on the literature of the American and English voyages to the Northwest Coast. This address has been printed and is now available in the Proceedings of the Pacific Northwest Library Association for the year 1924, pages 104-122. The information of the latter address is substantially that of the former, with the omission of the French and Spanish voyages. Librarians and students will find enduring value in these informing and convenient summaries.

---

The Journal Man

Mr. Fred Lockley of Portland continues in the Oregon Journal his column entitled "Impressions and Observations of the Journal Man." For more than eleven years, he has maintained this useful department. During this time he has secured and printed interviews with several thousand pioneers of Oregon and Washington.

---

Approaching the Century Mark

Holiday greetings from Major Junius Thomas Turner, of Washington, D. C., recalls the fact that he has passed his 98th natal day and has practiced law for 72 years. He was on Puget Sound and took part in the Indian war of 1855. He also participated in an Indian war in Oregon, in the Mexican war and the Civil war. His friends call him a hero of four wars. Among other duties just now, he is teaching a boy of sixteen to become a journalist.