- ¶ The leading article by Richard X. Evans is not only interesting history, but it will probably start some searching by geologists for that hidden report of Dr. John Evans and the meteorite on Bald Mountain.
- ¶ The recent reindeer drive makes Mr. Andrews' article one of especial interest.
- ¶ Mr. N. B. Coffman is one of the most notable pioneer bankers now living in the State of Washington. His contribution in this issue will be cherished.
- ¶ Wallace Wiley is one of the highly esteemed pioneers of the Yakima Valley.
- ¶ Mrs. Neergaard contributed a brief biography of Dr. George V. Calhoun in our issue of October, 1934, and now renders a similar service for the memory of Clarence B. Bagley.
- ¶ Mr. J. Neilson Barry, of Portland, a frequent contributor to this Quarterly, has made extensive studies of the sunken forest near the projected Bonneville Dam in the Columbia River.
- ¶ Professor J. Orin Oliphant begins a study of early Presbyterian documents pertaining to Oregon missions.
- ¶ Mr. McMurtrie completes in this issue his list of early Washington Territory newspapers.
