ANDREW JOHNSON, MILITARY GOVERNOR OF TENNESSEE. By Clifton R. Hall, Ph. D., Assistant Professor in History and Politics in Princeton University. (Princeton, Princeton University Press, 1916. Pp. 234.)

A very carefully worked out study of a much neglected field of activity in the Civil War which throws an interesting light on Andrew Johnson and the bitter controversies of a border state during that trying period.

THE CONGREGATIONAL HOME MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS OF THE NORTHWEST. By W. D. Lyman. (Walla Walla, Washington, Association of Congregational Churches, 1916. Pp. 20.)

Professor Lyman of Whitman College gathered much history for his address, delivered at Pasco on October 3, 1916. The address, according to the foreword, "was thought by the members of the association to embody facts and dates not before given in one connected view, and to possess in consequence a permanent value." The address is therefore issued in pamphlet form.

The Whitman Mission occupies the first few pages, after which many other pioneer efforts for religion and education are discussed. A fine tribute is paid to the late Professor Thomas Condon, "Oregon's Grand Old Man of Science."

THE CASE OF SPOKANE GARRY. By William S. Lewis. (Spokane, Spokane Historical Society, 1917. Pp. 68.)

This is Volume I, Number 1 of the Society's Bulletin. Mr. Lewis is Corresponding Secretary of the Society and is devoted to its success. As the author is a lawyer, it is natural that this work should assume the form of a "case." Part I has the subtitle: "The Facts in the Case." Part II is "The Case Against Garry" and Part III is "Conclusion."

There are eleven valuable half-tone illustrations in the book. Two treaties are given in the appendix and several documents are used in the text. Spokane Garry is one of the large Indian figures in early Spokane history. Mr. Lewis has certainly rendered an important service by bringing together such dependable material in this definite addition to Northwest Americana.
