

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

Robert G. Minnich is emeritus professor of social anthropology at the University of Bergen. His writing is based upon long-term participant observation fieldwork in Western Haloze during the mid 1970s, and thereafter in Slovene speaking enclaves of the Three Border Region (Austria-Italy-Slovenia). His studies treat various aspects of identity formation in borderland regions. robert.minnich@uib.no

Mateja Pezdirc Bartol is an associate professor of Slovene literature at the University of Ljubljana. Her research addresses Slovene plays, theater history, drama theory, and children's literature. She has authored numerous articles and the research volume Najdeni pomeni: empirične raziskave recepcije literarnega dela (2010). She edited Slovenski jezik, literatura, kultura in mediji (2008), Telo v slovenskem jeziku, literaturi in kulturi (2009), and Slovenska dramatika (2012). mateja.pezdirc-bartol@guest.arnes.si

Leopoldina Plut-Pregelj is a research associate at the College of Education, University of Maryland, and until 2014 an assistant professor for didactics at the University of Ljubljana. She has published extensively on education in Slovene and American journals. Among her book publications is the Historical Dictionary of Slovenia (1966, 2007, 2010), with Carole Rogel. Her latest book is Poslušanje: način življenja in vir znanja (2012). plutpreg@umd.edu

Ana Toroš is on the faculty at the School of Humanities and a research fellow at the Research Centre for Humanities (University of Nova Gorica). She specializes in literature in the Slovene-Italian border region. In 2011 she published The Image of Trieste and its Surroundings in the Slovenian and Italian Poetry of the first half of the 20th Century, and in 2013 O zemlja sladka: kamen, zrno, sok. Alojz Gradnik and the Romance and Germanic Worlds. ana.toros@ung.si

Peter Vodopivec was professor of European and American History at the University of Ljubljana (–1999), is scientific counselor emeritus at the Institute for Modern History in Ljubljana, and guest professor at universities abroad. He is the author of numerous articles and publications on Slovene, Austrian, French, and Central European history, including the standard synthetic history Od Pohlinove slovnice do do slovenske države (2006). peter.vodopivec@guest.arnes.si

ANA TOROŠ