

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

The authors of articles in this volume are as follows:

KÁROLY GADÁNYI is head of the Department of Slavic Studies at the University of Szombathely, Hungary. His areas of research are the lexicography of Slovene and Croatian, and dialects spoken by the Slovene and Croatian minorities in Hungary.

MARC. L. GREENBERG is Assistant Professor at the University of Kansas, Lawrence. His areas of specialization are Comparative and Historical Slavic Linguistics and Slovene Dialectology, and has published in California Slavic Studies, Die Welt der Slaven and Slavistična revija.

MATJAŽ KLEMENČIČ is Associate Professor at the University of Maribor. His recent publications include "To fellow Americanists: A Letter from Slovenia" (Journal of American History) and "Images of America among Slovene and other Yugoslav migrants" (Distant Magnets, New York, 1993.)

ALEŠ LOKAR is Professor of International Marketing and Production Management at the University of Udine. At present he is investigating the development of small businesses in Slovenia, and also acting as adviser in several small business projects and in small business networking.

JOSEPH PATERNOST is Professor of Slavic Languages at Pennsylvania State University. He has published Russian-English and Slovene-English glossaries of linguistic terms, and articles on problems of translation, on language and ethnicity among American Slovenes, and on sociolinguistic and structural-poetic aspects of epitaphs and place-names in Slovenia.