

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

The authors of articles in this issue are as follows:

ROBERT GILKEY DYCK is professor of urban affairs and planning at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University and is an architect. He was a Fulbright research scholar in Ljubljana in 1973, focusing on the work of Andrija Stampar. His collaborative work with the University of Maribor during the last fifteen years won him the Document of Honour award from that institution in 1999.

PETER KREČIČ is an art historian and critic, director of the Ljubljana Museum of Architecture, and visiting faculty member at the Ljubljana School of Architecture. He is the author of numerous articles and books on the Slovene avant-garde and on Jože Plečnik.

CHRISTOPHER LONG is Assistant Professor of Architectural and Design History in the School of Architecture at the University of Texas at Austin. His publications include Josef Frank (forthcoming) as well as numerous articles on Central European modernism. He is currently preparing a monograph on the Austro-American interior and furniture designer Paul T. Frankl.

DEBRA SCHAFER teaches art history in the Visual Arts & Technology Department at San Antonio College. Her central areas of research are nineteenth-century stylistic theory and Central European art, architecture, and design in the early twentieth century. Her forthcoming book (Cambridge UP) is entitled Structuring Modernism in Late Nineteenth-Century Art, Architecture, Design, and Theory.

WILLIAM M. SINGER practices architecture in the firm of R.M. Kliment & Frances Halsband Architects (New York City). He was a senior Fulbright scholar in Slovenia in 1993–94.

ALEŠ VODOPIVEC is a member of the journal Arhitektov bilten's editorial board. From 1990 to 1993 he was on the faculty of the Department for Landscape Architecture; from 1993, professor in the School of Architecture in Ljubljana. He has been a visiting professor and lecturer at various schools of architecture in France, Austria, Italy, the U.S., and Israel.