

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

Mary Grabar is a member of the faculty at Clayton State University, where she teaches literature and writing. She has published numerous articles on American and British literature, her own works of fiction, and journalistic articles.

Miran Hladnik is a faculty member in the Department of Slovene Language and Literature at the University of Ljubljana. His many publications treat the Slovene novel and popular literature, as well as applied topics. He moderates the slovenska literarna veda listproc.

Timotej Jagrič is a member of the faculty of the Department of Quantitative Economic Analysis, Faculty of Economics and Business, University of Maribor. His books and articles have been published by MIT Press, Business Economics, Eastern European Economics, and other scholarly journals.

Marija Klobčar is a research fellow at the Institute of Ethnomusicology in the Slovene Academy of Sciences and Arts. Her particular interests are the relationship between social structure and folksong and the reflections of social stratification in culture. Currently she directs a project entitled "The Hundredth Anniversary: The Participation of Slovene Folksong Heritage in the European Context."

Marko Kolanovič is in the Department of Physics at New York University. His Ph.D. thesis was entitled "Theories With Infinite Volume Extra Dimensions."

Sean C. O'Rourke is a Ph.D. candidate in linguistics at Yale University and recipient of the 2004 Rado L. Lencek Graduate Student Prize. He investigates the interfaces between morphology, phonology, and syntax and the clues that elements such as clitics provide. Currently he is completing a project on Swahili phonology.

Boris Podobnik is a member of the faculty of the Department of Physics in the Faculty of Civil Engineering, University of Rijeka, Croatia.

Sebastjan Strašek is a member of the faculty of the Department of Economic Policy, Faculty of Economics and Business, University of Maribor. His research has been published in Applied Economics, Europe-Asia Studies, Eastern European Economics, and other scholarly journals.

Cvetka Hedžet Tóth is a professor of ontology and metaphysics in the Department of Philosophy, University of Ljubljana. She is the author of numerous articles, essays, and studies on metaphysics and the ethical aspects of philosophy. Her most recent book is Metafizika čutnosti (2002).

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

